

GOVERNOR ARNOLD SCHWARZENEGGER

PROCLAMATION

The financial well-being of California citizens is linked to the economic health of our state and nation. Financially informed consumers fuel our economy as they build their own financial stability.

In the midst of rapidly changing technologies and developments, consumers have many choices about how to manage their financial affairs. Becoming financially literate can be a long-term process that requires assistance from outside the home.

In celebration of the fourth annual California Financial Literacy Month, educational and financial institutions, government entities and community-based organizations will work together to help families make informed choices about their finances.

Educational programs and events highlighting this year's theme of "Families Building Strong Financial Futures" will be conducted throughout the state to promote financial literacy and encourage a bright economic future.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, ARNOLD SCHWARZENEGGER, Governor of the State of California, do hereby proclaim the month of April 2005, as "California Financial Literacy Month."

IN WITNESS WHEREOF I have here unto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of California to be affixed this 29th day of March 2005.
